Water tower facelift underway

THE COLONY, Texas — Beginning Wednesday, Dec. 10, contractors will begin rehabilitation of the water tower on Clover Valley Drive.

The first phase of the tank rehabilitation process entails interior sandblasting and will take approximately seven weeks to complete. Residents in the area may experience construction noise during the process. However, city staff and the contractor will work together in an effort to eliminate any unneeded disruptions. Because of the holidays, the contractor is expecting to be offsite Dec. 20 through Jan. 2, 2015.

Residents should not experience any decrease in water pressure during the project as the pump stations and remaining two water towers are sufficient to provide adequate pressure throughout the city.

A future phase of this project includes repainting of the water tower. More updates will be given as the project moves forward.
